

Animals in the Bible – Donkey

The donkey (or ass) is often mentioned throughout scripture, including in some of the best-known events recorded in the Old Testament. (Genesis 22:3, 32:3–5, and 42:25–26; Exodus 4:20; 1 Samuel 25:18.)

Donkeys were symbols of peace, care, humbleness, and service; while horses were a sign of wealth, war, and power. Some of the great men of the Old Testament owned donkeys. (Genesis 12:16; Job 1:3 and 42:12.) Because they are surefooted and have excellent eyesight, donkeys can navigate rocky desert terrain.

There is an unusual record in the Bible of a donkey being enabled to verbally speak, Balaam's donkey. (Number 22:22–34.)

The prophet Zechariah predicted the triumphal entrance of Jesus into Jerusalem, "riding upon an ass." (Zechariah 9:9; Matthew 21:5.)
