

Healing of Paul from poisonous viper

And once they had made it ashore, then they knew that the island they were on was called Malta.

And the local people showed us great kindness: for they started a fire, and received us every one, because of the present rain, and because of the cold.

And when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks, and was putting them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and fastened on his hand.

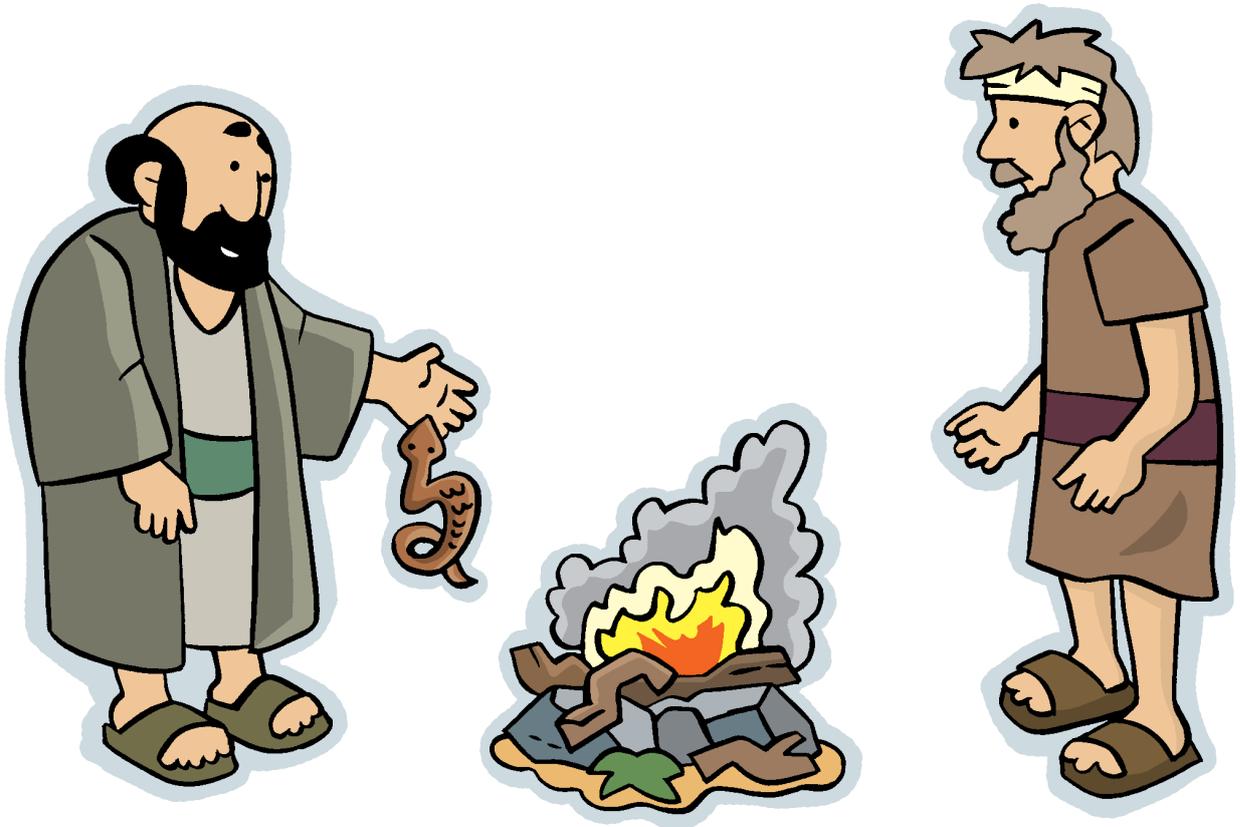

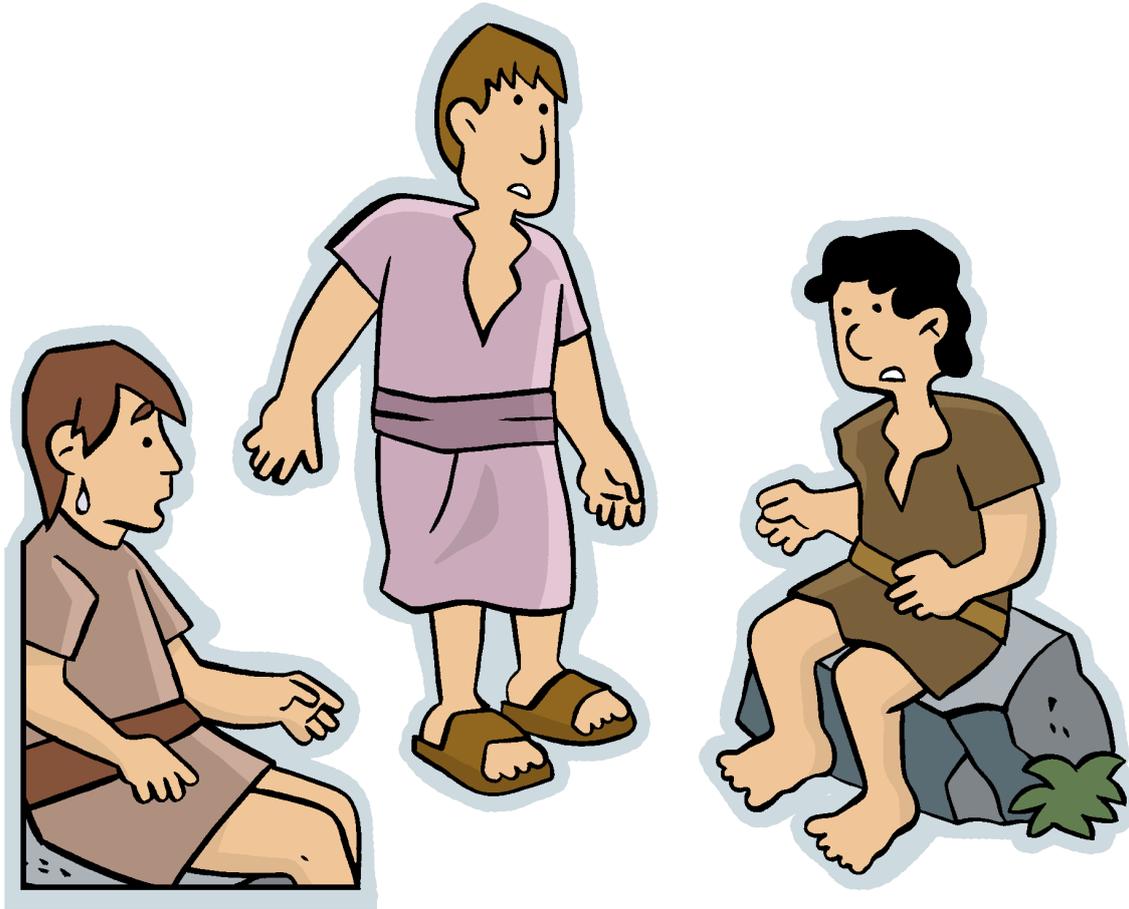

When the local people saw the venomous beast hang on his hand, they said among themselves, No doubt this man is a murderer, whom, though he has escaped the sea, a type of vengeance is causing him to die.

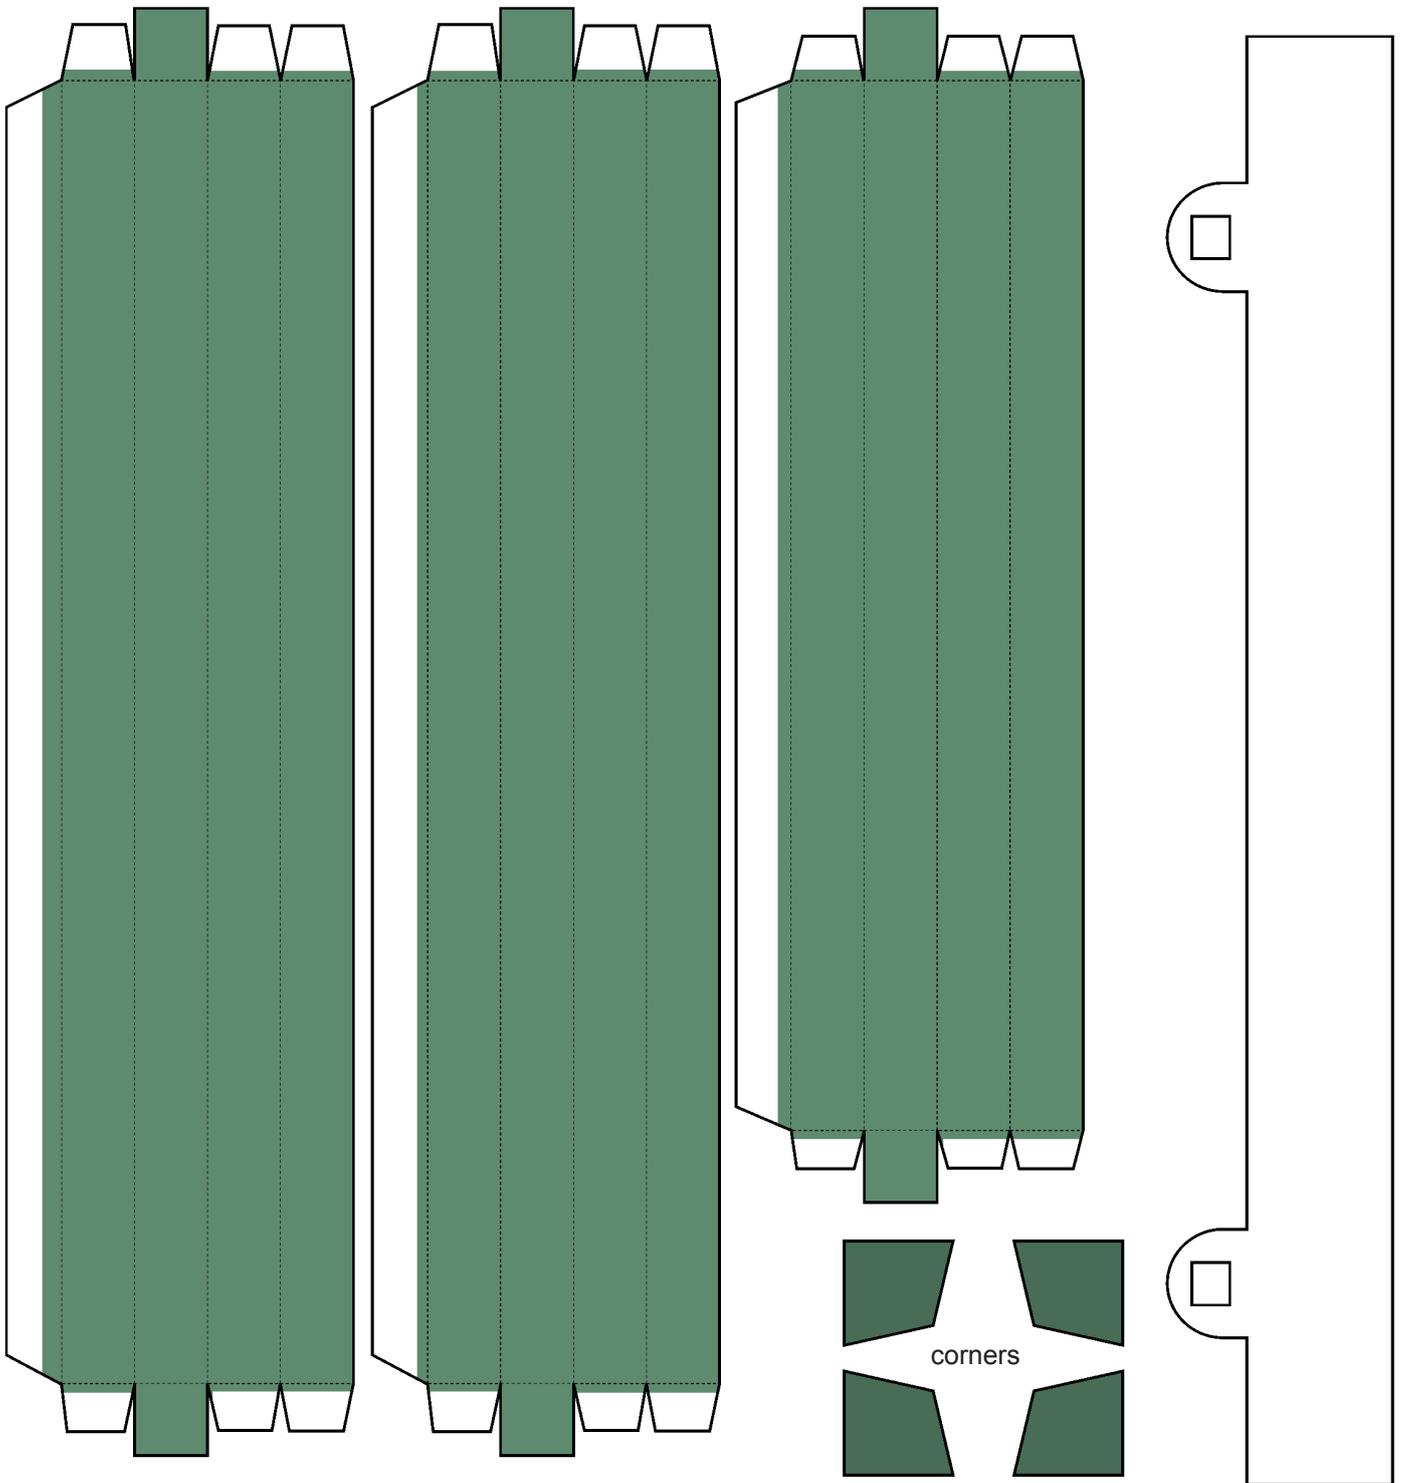

And he shook off the beast into the fire, and felt no harm.

However, they looked when he should have swollen from the bite, or suddenly fallen down dead: but after they waited for a long time, and saw no harm come to him, they changed their minds, and then said that he was a god.

Acts chapter 28, verses 1 through 6.
