

Jobs in the Bible – Carpenter

The Bible mentions several carpenters. Noah built the ark for the time of the flood (Genesis 6:14). Bezalel was the carpenter who made the Ark of the Covenant (Exodus 37:1). Carpenters helped build King David's palace (2 Samuel 5:11), as well as the temple in Solomon's day (1 Kings 5:18), and later to rebuild the temple after the Babylonians destroyed it (Ezra 3:7).

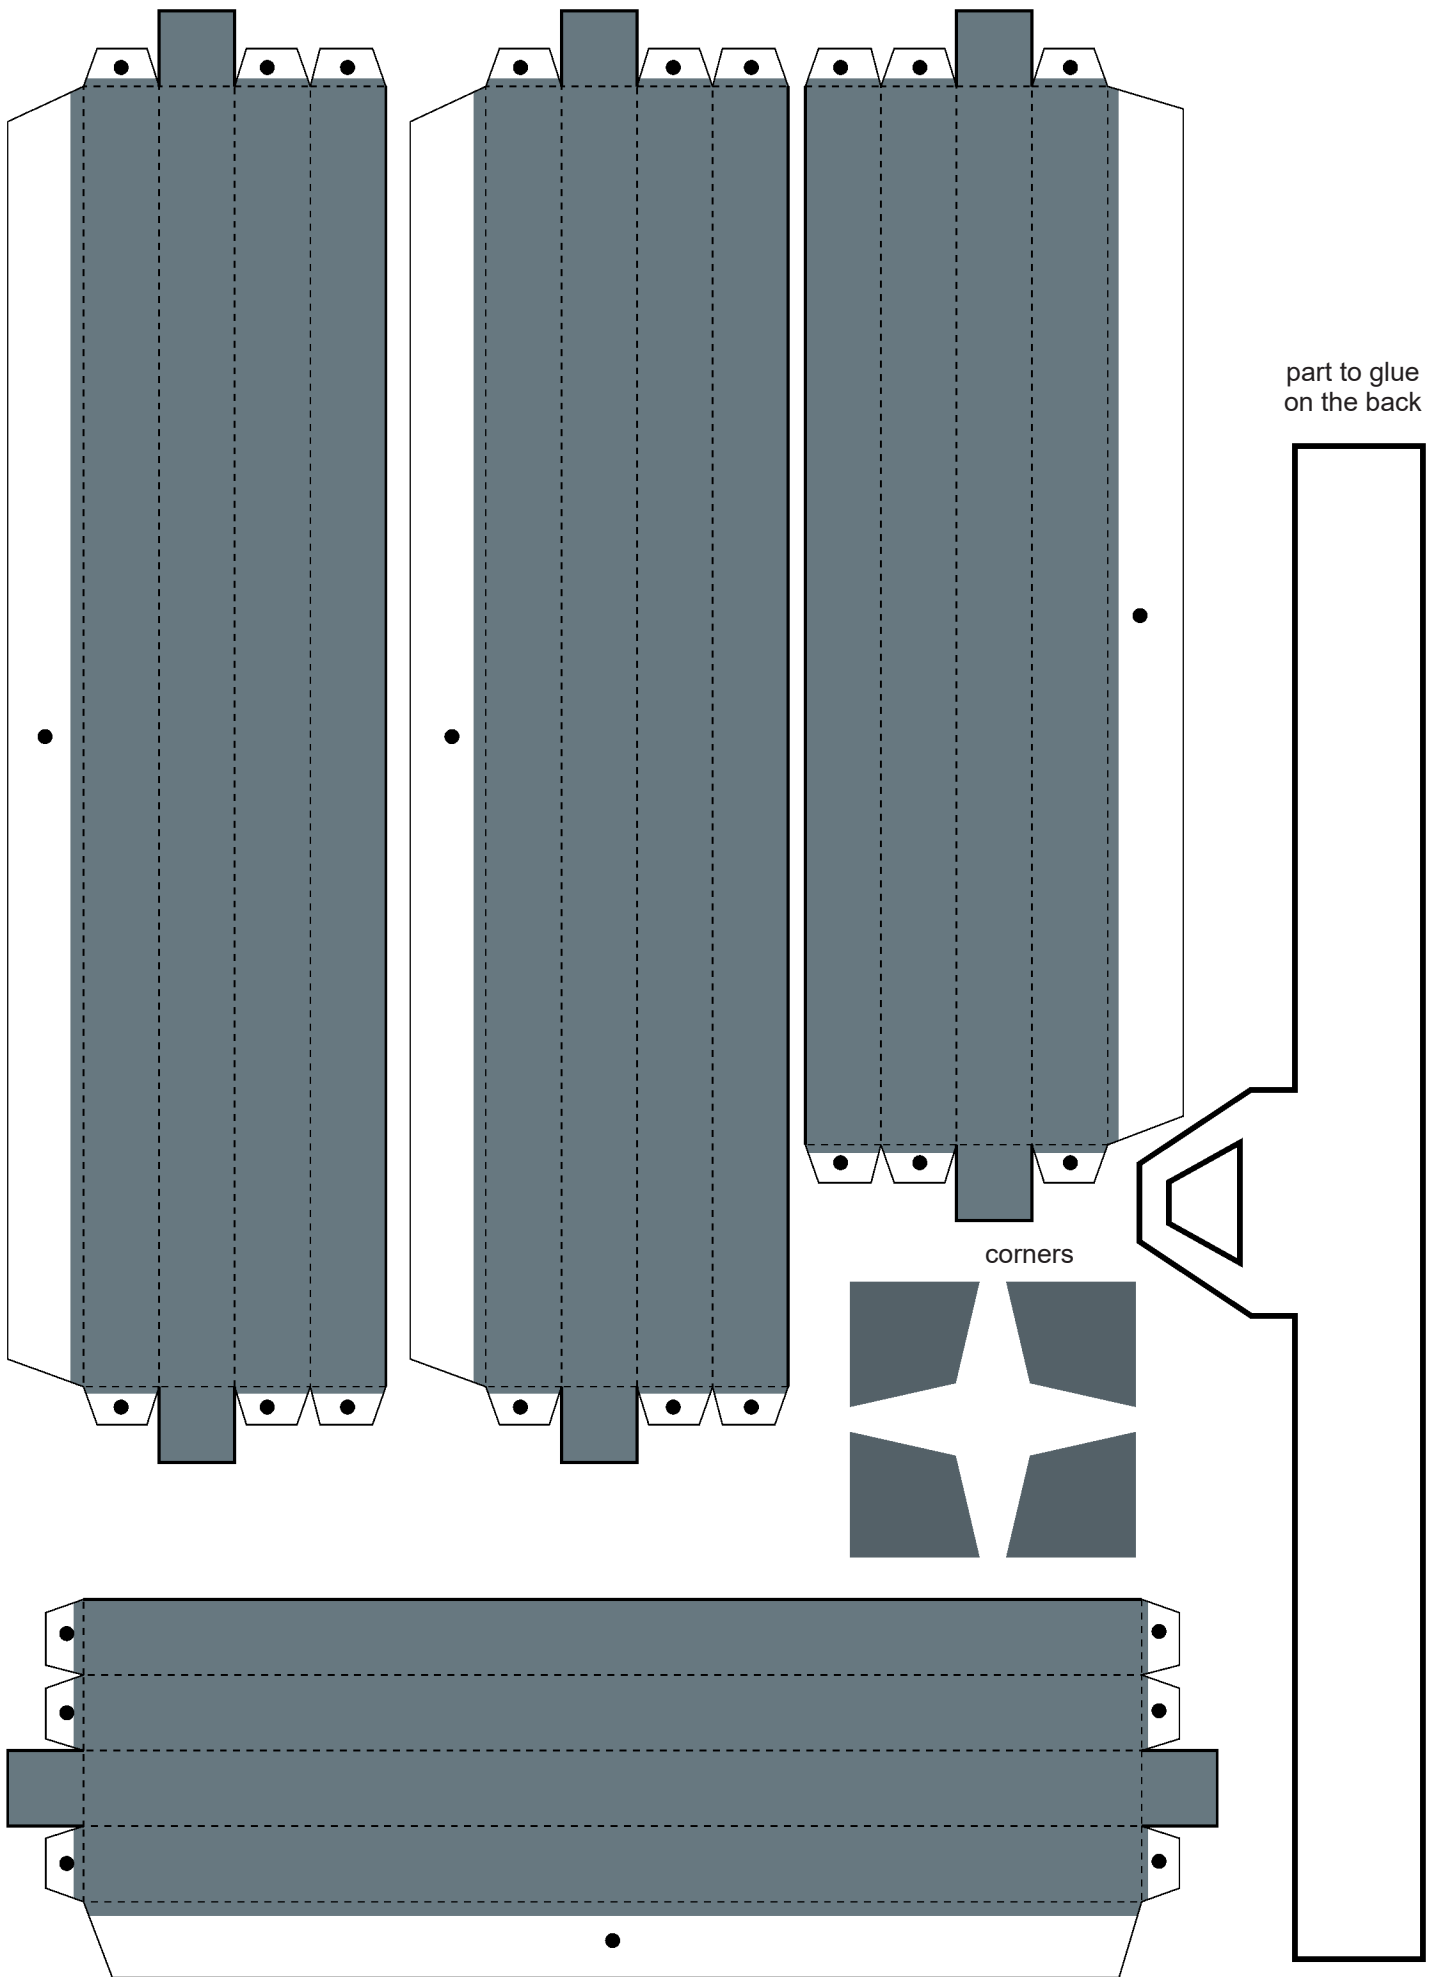

In biblical times, the role of a carpenter was an essential trade, involving the construction and repair of wooden structures, tools, and furniture. Carpentry continues to be an essential trade today.

In the Gospel of Matthew, Jesus is referred to as the “carpenter's son,” indicating Joseph's profession (Matthew 13:55). Carpentry, as a trade, involves creation, repair, and building which is much like Jesus' relationship to each of us; Jesus is our creator, and he continues to transform the lives of each individual and even of communities.

Jesus told his disciples of a future building project of his: “I go and prepare a place for you” (John 14:3). The Son of God and the Carpenter of Nazareth is building a special place for each of us.
